I work in series, painting acrylic and oils over previous paintings, updating them to the current series until the piece strikes a particular chord. They are dually a taxonomic record of process and images that I'm thinking about related to art history. My watercolors function as a benevolent trolling homage to images posted by artists and critics on Instagram.

Zach Seeger is a painter working in LIC and Upstate, NY. He has exhibited in nationally and internationally with shows at John Molloy Gallery, Freight & Volume, Arts & Leisure, Life on Mars, and Gold Montclair. He is a frequent contributor for Two Coats of Paint and teaches at the 92NY in Manhattan.
