Artist Statement

I am a maker, striving for the skillful creation of beautiful objects. And I believe art is a form of communication. Each of us curates a collection of things we love, and these things tell a story about us. Jewelry communicates intimately, worn on the self while inviting others to look; wearable art makes your statement unique. My intention is to help you tell your story through the art of adornment.

Artist Bio

Anne Randall is a corporate refugee who gleefully reinvented herself as an artist. Her focus is art jewelry, enameling and metalsmithing. She exhibits and teaches in the Puget Sound region where she is also active in several arts groups. She has studied extensively with master artists from throughout the United States and Europe. A selection of exhibitions and affiliations is below.
