

About the Artist

Debbie Nadolney was born in NYC in 1957. She moved to Boston in 1975 to attend the Museum School, the Art Institute of Boston, and in 1982 received a BFA from Massachusetts College of Art with honors in painting.

During the 21 years spent in Boston she played in bands such as Lunch, Acts of Distraction and High Risk Group, participated in numerous exhibitions, and co-founded the Causeway Visual and Performing Artists. From 1994-95, she was acting manager and curator of JP Art Market Gallery.

In January of 2012, Debbie moved to Provincetown from NYC to launch AMP: Art Market Provincetown, a 'live' gallery space dedicated to exhibiting multi-disciplined work by visual, conceptual, performance artists, filmmakers and writers.