

Washington, DC, based artist Jill Bateman graduated from the University of Tennessee, Phi Beta Kappa, with a B.A. in French and Economics. She studied art at both the University of Tennessee and the University of California at Los Angeles, and she holds a Certificate in Painting and Drawing from the Corcoran School of Art as well as the Washington Studio School. Jill's work is held in private and corporate collections nationally and has been exhibited in various locations throughout the Washington, DC, area. She is currently represented by the Foundry Gallery in Washington, DC. <http://www.foundrygallery.org>