JOIE IACONO

The artist, still in the process of transformation from man to woman, presents an intriguingly elliptical self-portrait, both literally and metaphorically. The eccentric arrangement of variously sized color still lifes, portraits, and landscapes recalls both Nan Goldin and Wolfgang Tillmans without seeming in the least bit derivative, perhaps because Iacono has found her own witty, allusive, and assured vocabulary. Pamela Pecchio's terrific nature studies are in the Project Room. ALETTI Through October 4, Wallspace, 547 West 27th Street, 212.594.9478
