Artist Trading Cards Class #top

(Samples of Artist Trading Cards)

Artist Trading Cards, also referred to as “ATC's” are small 2 1/2”X 3 1/2” collage images. They are to be given away as gifts, but never sold. I provide most of the materials, glues, crayons, paint, paper or fabric scraps, and you can bring your own. They are best stored in plastic sleeves commonly used to store baseball cards. No experience needed in either drawing nor painting, and a three hour class is $40. Classes will be offered in spring of 2020.

Getting Started in Art Journaling #top

Getting started in Art Journaling will teach you how to prepare a background on the page, then how to layer, add color, add your own handwriting or apply a printed phrase which is meaningful to you. Each journal is completely unique to the artist making it. Participants should bring an 8 x10 blank wire bound journal, such as a Canson mixed media pad (easily found at Michael's stores or Dick Blick), which is strong enough to take wet or dry mediums, scissors, and any pictures, clippings, or other ephemera they want to use, and a waterproof marker. Adhesives and more will be provided. This class is taught in 4. two hour sessions across 4 weeks, fee is $100. I offer afternoon or evening classes and will announce dates and times in spring 2020; if this class interests you, you can contact me with your time and date preferences and I will try to work around those times.
