SUMMARY

Residing just outside of Edmonton, Alberta, I am an interdisciplinary visual artist with a Master of Fine Arts in Printmaking from the University of Alberta, a Master of Science in Plant Ecology from the University of Manitoba, and a Bachelor of Science in Biology from the University of Guelph. My artwork has been showcased in exhibitions across Canada, the US, and internationally, and is represented by two commercial art galleries in Calgary and Edmonton. Solo exhibitions of my work have been held in Edmonton (2013, 2019, 2021, 2022, 2023), Calgary (2014, 2015, 2019, 2020, 2022), Winnipeg (2024), Toronto (2021), Vernon (2023), and Vancouver (2025).

I spent over a decade as a botanist and wildlife biologist in the landscapes of western Canada before transitioning into a career in the visual arts, and this experience deeply influences my work. My studio practice is rooted in the study of nature and ecology and engages with urgent environmental issues from biodiversity decline to climate change, integrating science-based processes with printmaking and other media. Alongside my studio practice and related professional engagements I balance my time between teaching community art classes, volunteering with various arts organizations, supporting my children and family, and spending time outdoors.

TRAINING AND LEARNING

Artist Residencies

2026. Martha Street Studio, Winnipeg, Manitoba.

2025. Mokuhanga Innovation Laboratory Advanced Artist-in-Residence Program, Echizen, Fukui Prefecture, Japan. This five-week self-directed artist residency centers on the study of Mokuhanga (Japanese water-based woodcut printmaking) under the guidance of Japanese instructors. Independent creative exploration is complemented by a curated program that combining workshops, instructional sessions, excursions, and networking opportunities with both visiting and local artists.

2025. Ecole Meridian Heights School (K-9), Stony Plain, Alberta. This one-month-plus artist residency introduced printmaking, collaborative art-making, a lunchtime art club, and exhibition of works, to the approximately 600 students at the school. I designed and carried out the project, funded by the Alberta Foundation for the Arts with matching in-kind support from the school and artist.

- 2024. University of British Columbia, Okanagan Campus, Kelowna, British Columbia. Two-week Artist Residency in the printmaking studios of the Faculty of Critical and Creative Studies at the invitation of Professor Briar Craig. Self-guided experiments in monotype and zinc etching, alongside field research.
- 2023. Point Pelee National Park. Parks Canada, Ontario. One-week Artist-in-Residence focused on field research, sound recording, en plein air painting, creative writing, and woodcut printmaking.
- 2023. City of Edmonton. Yorath House, City Arts Centre, Edmonton, Alberta. 5-week Artist-in-Residence, focused on field research, sound recording, en plein air painting, creative writing, and woodcut printmaking.
- 2021. Artist's Research Program. Swarm: Insects+art. Two-week remote Artist's Residency. The residency included a series of expert lectures relating to insects and art; and self-directed experimenting with recording equipment and software for digital sound recording of insect sound, ecological soundscapes, and more (part of ongoing self-taught sound work for over ten years), as well as self-taught experiments in stop-motion animation.
- 2017. Banff Centre for the Arts, Banff, Alberta. Five-week Individual Artist's Residency. This residency included among other things self-taught approaches to printmaking-based stop-motion animation through studio experimenting with equipment and set-ups, speaking with other artists, internet reading and library research; and experiments with copper etching.
