Employment

2005-Present Founder, Director, Adae Fine Art Academy

-An independent arts institution in the Ninth Square district of New Haven, CT specializing in the individualized instruction in all levels and media of drawing and painting to children, teenagers and adults. Each student is encouraged to work in the media and subject matter of their choice. We do not follow the traditional teaching format of a teacher instructing the same concepts to the entire class. Students at the Adae Fine Art Academy inform their teacher what it is they wish to learn how to create. Whatever they choose to create they are assisted in learning the artistic concepts needed to complete their piece. Each student creates their own unique artwork simultaneously and independently from other students in the class making beginner, intermediate, and advanced level classes obsolete. This teaching format allows students to excel further from wherever their individual artistic skill set may reside. Classes are divided by age groups and not by experience or level of skill. This also expunges any comparisons that may occur between students based on levels of skill. It is an eclectic way to teach and an effective way to learn. We implement a Mobile Art Studio Service that provides off site art instruction to a diverse set of populations in the Greater New Haven area including; children in afterschool programs, elderly artists residing in assisted living centers, artists in transitional facilities for people living with schizophrenia, and young adults at mental health clinics. Responsibilities include all maintenance of enrollment rosters, marketing and promotional events, prospective student recruitment, bookkeeping, billing & account reconciliation, social media presentation, acquisition and maintenance of our art library where students are invited to take books home to learn more about art. We also showcase student artwork at an annual exhibition where the school is transformed into a curated gallery exhibition space where students exhibit the artwork created in the past year to the community at large.

When we are not teaching we contribute to the discourse of public art both locally and internationally by designing murals. We are regularly commissioned to design and orchestrate the installation of professional and collaborative mural projects. We are skilled with working with people of a diverse range of ages and skill levels who do not necessarily come from artistic backgrounds and unify them to create public art.
