Important Information regarding paintings

Backgrounds:

Please note these prices are for portraits against a simple coloured or plain background like a hanging sheet.

For a portrait against an intricate background, such as a room with objects or a landscape, the price will go up due to the length of time it takes to paint it. Please ask for details.

Figures:

When I quote a price for a head and shoulders, this can be anything from a large cropped face, to a head and torso down to the waist. This will not affect the cost, and purely depends on your preference.

The price quoted includes:

- A photo shoot of the subject(s). I will facilitate up to two separate shoots free of charge if the client isn't completely satisfied with photos from the first session. Any further shoots will incur a cost of £100 per session.
 - My time and materials when completing the painting.
- Email correspondence as the painting is being worked on, and viewings at progress stages if required. Please let me know if you would like to do this.
 - A painting in oils or acrylics on a high quality canvas.
 - A certificate of authenticity signed and dated upon completion.

Framing:

I can arrange framing if required. The charge will be the cost of the frame as quoted by the framer, + a £15 fee for my time. If you have a budget or frame style preference, please let me know.

Framing can take a few weeks depending on the framer. If there is a deadline for your painting (i.e to be given as a gift), please allow enough time for this when planning the commission.

Added Extras:

- Framing (See above).
- I can provide prints of your painting to give to family or friends. These are £22 for an A4 print mounted in cream card and wrapped in cellophane.
