

Who am I? My name is Angelique (Angel for short) and I am an illustrator. My medium is ink, my canvas is skin.

I hatched out on the twentieth of October, in the Human year 1900 and 83, 3:30 AM Est on Bert's Chicken Farm. After much incubation and learning how to peck and scratch, I picked up my first pencil. It was easy- I was the only one with opposable thumbs! I Got into art at a young age, some stuff happened, and somehow managed to end up here. I have been professionally since 2003. My focus has been on full-scale custom work. I enjoy any style, from black and grey to full colour, realistic to graphic design. I guess you might say I'm pretty versatile.

When I am not tattooing, I enjoy teleporting to and from distant dimensions, riding and restoring mopeds, constructing a poultry atomizer, and the usual art and painting stuff. I am a fond believer in spontaneity and variety. I do not like tofu. I love meeting new people, traveling, and learning new things.
