

Women's Painting Classes

open and ongoing September thru the end of May!

Painting classes open to adults of all skill levels. Limited class size provides individualized attention and personal guidance for each student. Students may select to bring in source material such as photographs or clippings from magazines for reference and inspiration to paint. Still-lives will be provided for students who are interested in painting from observation. Students may also bring in works in progress to resolve.

Classes run Thursdays in Grosse Pointe from 12:30 to 4pm. Students may utilize the entire 3.5 hours to paint, but it is okay to arrive late or leave early--whatever works for you! Easels, tables and stools are provided. Students are responsible to bring their own painting supplies, which may be stored in the room between classes. The introductory class rate is $50. Take time to practice working creatively and investigate the joy of painting. Meet new people with similar interests. Space is limited so reserve your spot in class right away! ## About the Instructor:

Rachel Reynolds Z: Artist, Educator, Optimist. A painter, Rachel shares a 4,500 square foot studio space in Hamtramck with a fabrication business run by her sculptor husband, Robert Zahorsky. When Reynolds Z isn't working creatively in her studio, she shares her knowledge of art with students at Oakland University in Rochester Hills, adult learners at the Flint Institute of Arts, workshops for the GPAA (Grosse Pointe Art Association) at the War Memorial and private lessons to high school home-schoolers.

Rachel earned a BFA in 2000 from the College for Creative Studies, Detroit and continued her education at Vermont College of Fine Arts, in Montpelier, graduating with a MFA in Visual Arts in 2007. Reynolds Z has served as a Visiting Artist and lectured about her work at the Detroit Institute of Arts, Cuyahoga Community College in Ohio, Madonna University in Livonia, Oakland University in Rochester Hills, Cranbrook Kingswood, Bloomfield Hills and the Farmington Public Library by invitation from the Farmington Art Foundation. She exhibits her work regularly in both group and solo shows at local galleries. When Rachel is not creating art and teaching she loves to travel, eat, listen to live music, garden, hike, scuba dive, watch basketball, read and in between all of that--relax.
