SOCIAL PRACTICE/COMMUNITY BASED ART PROJECTS

- 2026 Tiny Exhibition – An immersive experience that merged art, architecture, and social advocacy. A one-day immersive public art event at Liberty Station's Arts District. A collaboration between contemporary artist Lisa Bryson, CEO of Tiny Home Central, Ellen Stone and the non-profit The Warrior Village Project, held on the historic grounds of the former Naval Training Center. Featuring a collection of exquisite miniature oil paintings: exploring themes of scale, luxury, and sustainability, challenging the notion that size dictates value—in both art and living spaces, San Diego, CA
- 2018 Make Your Mark – Interactive painting collaborative performance, political and social media commentary, San Diego, CA
- 2017 To See or Be Seen – Participated in an interactive art performance that introduced drawing into the community, while broadcasting the event through live stream video, New Bedford, MA
- 2012 Let's Read About Home – Community based interactive book art two-day workshop. Working with the local library, displayed book art, presented reading sessions and provided workshops for all ages to make books based on home, community, and education, Ramona, CA
- 2011 New Beginnings and Portable Memories – Organized book art event in response to the devastating CA wildfires: constructing new memories and encapsulating ashes from remnants into books—portable memories, San Diego, CA
- 2006 Food for All and Food for Thought – Organized food drive with an emphasis on community and the arts. Comedic theatrical performances, poetry readings and large portable mural construction—allowing all community members to make art and cultivate community interaction, Poway, CA
