Related Experience

Currently serving as the Chair of the Executive Board, Art Workers Union, at the Frye Museum, Seattle Washington. My duties include presiding at all regular and special meetings of the Union and Executive Board, as well as setting the agendas for the meetings. My responsibility is to preserve order and enforce the Constitution and By-Laws of the Union. Additionally, I serve as lead negotiator on the bargaining team.

Launched Working Proof in 2009, a podcast that was dedicated to discussions and interviews about printmaking and contemporary print artists. There were six episodes produced.

Served as a printer (with Prof. Jack Damer as master printer) on a Sue Coe limited edition two-color lithograph at the University of Wisconsin-Madison in the spring of 2004. Printed at least one run on each print, with the edition totaling 117.

As a graduate student in 2003, I was one of twenty students chosen nationally to participate in the inaugural Salt City exchange portfolio sponsored by Syracuse University.

Co-founder and member of No Fun, an artist collective whose work is varied in media and content but takes root in popular culture. The exhibitions we created encouraged artists to investigate new concepts and processes not utilized in individual projects. This practice created a dialogue within the group to further explore collaboration and enhance individual studio work.
