

I am happiest when I am painting plein air landscapes. My goal is to create a visual story that communicates the feeling of a particular time and place.

I discovered my love of art in college where I received a B.A. in English with a minor in Fine Arts from The College of New Jersey. Since college I have studied drawing and painting extensively, taking classes at the Art Students League of New York, the Pennsylvania Academy of Fine Arts, and workshops by nationally known artists. My work has been exhibited in many of the local juried art shows as well as at the Artists' Gallery in Lambertville.
