Teaching Experience

Montclair State University- Adjunct Professor

Design for Dance

Spring 2011

A design class for dance majors who were taught basic design skills and how to cope with common problems faced in low budget dance productions. In this course, I taught basic sewing skills and intro to design specifically with dancers in mind. To facilitate, students picked a piece of music to choreograph and design that we used throughout the semester.

Theatre 101: Intro To Costuming

Spring 2010-Spring 2011

A required elective that teaches student the basic skills for garment construction. Students learn cutting, hand stitching and machine stitching techniques. I take the students through three projects with the final being is a completed garment geared to the students' skill level and ambition.

Theater 104: Practicum in Costuming

Spring 2011

A hands-on class where students practice these skills in a real-world setting by assisting in the building of costumes for MSU productions. I supervised and guided students in costume making and mentored students in their design work.

Stephen F. Austin State University

Guest Designer

2015

I was a guest designer for August: Osage County and mentored a costume design student. During my month long residency, I held a workshop about my design process on for the show. I, also, participated in the Costume Design class offering my constructive criticism.

University of Missouri At Kansas City

Theatre Lab

Fall 2006-Spring 2009

I supervised undergraduate students in the construction of costumes for the university season. I helped student learn through doing in the costume shop. We created and altered costume for undergraduate and graduate productions.

University of Missouri At Kansas City

Intro to Costume Design- Teaching Assistant

I helped and observed my graduate school professor, Lindsay Davis, teach undergraduates costume design. We had four projects over the course each with a different rendering style suited to the educational goal of each project.
