Megan Euker Receives Fulbright U.S. Scholar Award to Italy for Work with San Rocco Therapeutics' Gene Therapy Development for Sickle Cell Disease and Beta Thalassemia and to teach Biomimetic Design and Sculpture at MADE in Siracusa, Sicily

The U.S. Department of State and the Fulbright Foreign Scholarship Board are pleased to announce that Megan Euker of San Rocco Therapeutics, the School of the Art Institute of Chicago and University of South Florida has received a Fulbright U.S. Scholar Program award to Italy. Euker will conduct research and teach at MADE in Siracusa as part of her project, "Sangue Tira (Blood Pulls)" to integrate into the Italian health system, hospitals, and patient centers in the south of Italy that serve as a model for advocacy in the United States. In teaching, she will, as in her own professional practice, demonstrate the crossovers of art, science, medicine, technology, and law.

As a Fulbright Scholar, Euker will share knowledge and foster meaningful connections across communities in the United States and Italy. Fulbrighters engage in cutting-edge research and expand their professional networks, often continuing research collaborations started abroad and laying the groundwork for forging future partnerships between institutions. Upon returning to their institutions, labs, and classrooms, in the United States, they share their stories and often become active supporters of international exchange, inviting foreign scholars to campus and encouraging colleagues and students to go abroad. As Fulbright Scholar alumni, their careers are enriched by joining a network of thousands of esteemed scholars, many of whom are leaders in their fields. Fulbright alumni include 60 Nobel Prize laureates, 88 Pulitzer Prize recipients, and 39 who have served as a head of state or government.

The Fulbright Program is the U.S. government's flagship international educational exchange program and is supported by the people of the United States and partner countries around the world. The Bureau of Educational and Cultural Affairs is pleased to announce that 2021 marks the 75th Anniversary of the Fulbright Program. Celebrations throughout the year will highlight the impressive accomplishments and legacy of the program and its alumni over its first 75 years, both in the United States and around the world. A dedicated 75th Anniversary website - www.fulbright75.org - is being updated throughout 2021 to showcase anniversary events and to facilitate ongoing engagement.

Since 1946, the Fulbright Program has provided more than 400,000 participants from over 160 countries the opportunity to study, teach and conduct research, exchange ideas, and contribute to finding solutions to shared international concerns. The primary source of funding for the Fulbright program is an annual appropriation by the U.S. Congress to the U.S. Department of State's Bureau of Educational and Cultural Affairs. Participating governments and host institutions, corporations and foundations in foreign countries and in the United States also provide direct and indirect support.
