Roll up! Roll up! It's A Model Artist sideshow!

See them Model!

See them change colour!

An Artist paints her model, without success. The Model takes matter into her own hands, but will they be able to complete their masterpiece before the ringmaster closes the show?

A film without dialogue styled on the silent era, modelled by the future.

'A Model Artist' was conceived when the performer in the film, Gemma Isaac-Henwood, approached the director looking for a unique way of portraying herself as both a model and a painter to promote her work. Gemma is a beautiful woman with many styles and sides to her personality, so Helena Mitchell set about create a short film in its own right illustrating Gemma's world and her artistic persona.
