

about

Deepa Mahajan in her multi-disciplinary practice explores themes of individuality and transition. In her works she uses personal narrative to conduct explorations in collage, objects, sculpture, installation and drawing. With a series approach, her investigations are across two- and three-dimensional mediums. Her recent paper collages are created in large and small formats in which she builds the narrative by employing wide ranging materials and drawing tools. In her current collages, the material used to represent skin motif is either readymade or is made in the studio using non-traditional ways.
