Charles Mack, born 1999, is an interdisciplinary artist and researcher currently based in Savannah GA whose work investigates design and perspective from a nonlinear lens. Mack received a BA in Psychology from Indiana University in 2021, where he completed independent studies in serigraphy and design outside of his academic program. In May 2021, Mack had his first solo exhibition titled And the Trees Were Like Mushrooms, a two-day exhibition featuring photography, screenprinting, and filmmaking.
