

Who is McKenna Parra

Biography

McKenna Parra is a college student, graduating in 2027 with a bachelor's degree in drawing and painting. She is a surrealism, realism artist whose focus is drawing and painting. She also practices in basketry, metal smithing, jewelry making, and wood working. Her work circles around the reminiscence of my childhood memories, and the depictions of what my dreams are trying to tell me.

From a very young age, she was captivated by art. Her father was an artist himself, and she idolized him. He was the one that showed her how art can help you express yourself.

She has had some of her work published, accepted, and seen, she has had her work showcased in state V.A.S.E, her work was accepted into Mutiny Market where her artwork was created into a zine with other creators for all to see at their event. Her artwork "Easter Day" was accepted into a student organization, the North Texas Review magazine with other creators from all around.

She is able to transform emotion into her work, she wants others to understand what goes on inside her head. Whether working in prismacolors, charcoal, gouache, or digital work, she shows exceptional control over texture and detail, layering elements in a way that guides the viewer's eye effortlessly across her pieces.
